Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong.

Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 21 cent stamp to cover cost of mailing only, or, in cloth binding for 31 stamp.

Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Correspondence

INDEX.

Farmers are busy working corn.

Miss Essie B. McClain, of Lenox, who has been visiting her grandfather, E. M. Carr, for some time, returned home Saturday.

Miss Fannie Reed spent last week with her grandparents near Wellsville.

Miss Bertha Byrd, of Breathitt county, was visiting relatives here last week.

Asa Elam, of Mt. Sterling, who has been visiting relatives here the last week, returned home Monday.

Circuit Court convenes Monday, the 26th, and if we are not deceived in the make-up of the grand jury it would be a good time to start the vote selling probe, as the primary comes the 1st of July, just 5 days later, it would have a good effect and no doubt would do much toward stopping the vote traffic. Let's come says

PIGHEAD.

Sheriff Ned Hamilton and Constable Forest Franklin were here on the 3rd and 4th making some arrests and preparing for circuit court.

Judge I. C. Ferguson passed through our place Saturday.

Quite a crowd of young folks were entertained last Saturday night by T. P. Conley and wife.

Ethel Conley, we are glad to note, is improving.

A large crowd attended church last Sunday at the Albert Hutchinson grave yard.

T. P. Conley was at West Liberty the 5th on business.

We have been supplied with two good rains the past week, which was badly needed.

John L. Skaggs, of Redwine, was here Saturday.

BAD BOY.

GRASSY CREEK.

Our home has been made sad by the death of our mother-in-law, Margaret E. Pieratt, whose obituary appeared in last weeks issue of the Courier. T. H. Testerman and wife, of Lexington, attended the funeral services conducted by Elder W. I. Gevedon. Also, Dr. F. M. Carter, of Farmers, the deceased younger brother, was present.

Mrs. A. B. McKinney, of Morehead, is visiting her sister, Maggie Nickell.

Elder E. H. Burnam, of Richmond, attended the meeting at Grassy Lick the 4th Saturday and Sunday and preached some very instructive sermons.

Uncle Joe Cundiff, who has been critically ill for some time, is thought to be improving.

There was quite a number of friends and relatives met at the several grave yards and scattered flowers on the graves of loved ones deceased.

The speaking at Goodwells Chapel Wednesday was attended with a good crowd of citizens, at which time and place both gas and oratory was dealt out unsparingly and in a most fluent manner. I don't know whether the meeting was attended with much enthusiasm or not, as I was not present. Let every voter survey the political field and vote for the best interest of his country.

Let every good citizen subscribe for his paper and learn what is going on in his country.

FAIR PLAY.

CAMPBELL.

One of the largest crowds that ever assembled in Wolfe county attended the laying of the corner stone of the Industrial College at Pine Ridge on Thursday the 25th ult. The speakers all delivered able addresses but it is generally conceded that A. H. Stamper's speech was one of the most masterful and eloquent speeches ever delivered on an occasion of this kind. He urged every citizen of Wolfe and adjoining counties to give their moral and financial support to this institution, and help make it one of the best schools in Eastern Kentucky, and which means so much to the future of Wolfe county and the rising generation.

I see that Bro. Nick, of Ezel and Murphy, goes after Bro. Pighead and tells of the great things that Horton has done for Wolfe county and asks him "to come again please if you have the nerve." Bro. Nick is either trying to deceive the people or is absolutely void of any respect for the truth when he says that two years ago when Horton was campaign chairman of Wolfe, that Wolfe county gave the Democratic nominee the largest majority ever given in this county before. The truth is there was the greatest fall off in the Democratic vote in this county that ever was before in the representatives race. Malone Lykins, as good a man as ever lived, and a young man who had as bright prospects for the future as any man in Eastern Kentucky, and whose star of hope was blighted by his defeat, received only 130 majority in the campaign of which Bro. Nick boasts. It is well known by everyone that this fall off in the vote was not because the people had anything against Malone Lykins. It can be further established that Horton as campaign chairman received the largest campaign fund that any chairman previous to this time had ever received. Horton had headquarters in the St. Cloud hotel in Campion and never did anything for any Democratic nominee in that race except issue funds as directed by an advisory committee. And then for Bro. Nick to try to deceive the voters in such a manner shows that he has his nerve or he would not dare write such stuff as that when everybody knows it is not true.

DEMOCRAT.

EBON

A large audience attended church at Omer Sunday. Prof. Wiloughby preached two good sermons, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon.

Gabriel Banks established a Sunday School at Omer Sunday evening. The people appeared very much interested.

A very successful singing school closed Sunday at the Goad school. J. H. Fugate, teacher.

Memorial services were held May 30th, at Barker-Prater cemetery. A large assembly were present, and after decorating the graves led to an instructive

lesson delivered

McGuire

of Ha-

zey.

Please do not be too rough with Pighead. I did not catch anything in his writing which defines his views clearly for whom he intends to stand in the coming primary for Representative. He may be for Horton, or Stamper or Dyer for aught I know; it is his high privilege. I, for one, at this writing am for Mr. Horton and shall not change my views unless I find I am in the wrong. I believe we should all talk less and think more. Let us not with our gab prepare food to defeat the nominee whoever it be.

Marie, the little daughter of Claude and Emma McGuire, who has been dangerously sick, is improving.

Enoch Fairchild, of Goodsey, had the misfortune on the night of the 22nd ult., to get his barn burned, and there is strong suspicion that the fire was of incendiary origin. Two mules, one belonging to Mr. Fairchild and one to his son Fred, were burned to death. The barn also contained about 100 bushels of corn and two stacks of hay, all of which was a total loss.

session and called a primary election to be held in each county composing the district, (Morgan and Wolf) on the 27th day of May, 1911, that being the date of the State primary.

This call seemed to be entirely satisfactory to all interested parties and the nominee whoever he may be may rest assured that he will have the hearty support of his opponents who were unsuccessful in this race for the nomination.

Geo. B. Cox Indicted for Perjury.

Geo. B. Cox, "Republican Boss" of Cincinnati, was indicted by the Hamilton county, O., grand jury February 21st on a charge of perjury.

The charge upon which the grand jury found a true bill is that Cox testified falsely before the grand jury on March 21, 1906, in answer to questions as to whether he had received any interest or money which certain banks, according to disclosures brought out before the Drake investigating committee, had paid to John H. Gibson as gratuities, during his four years service as County Treasurer.

The Legislative Committee did the proper thing in calling a primary election. This gives each candidate a fair show and every Democrat a chance to vote. It leaves no man with an excuse to bolt. We can recall but one instance in which the Democratic voters of Morgan county did not participate in the selection of the nominee and that was at the time that the Legislature made Morgan and Wolf two separate districts and each county nominated a candidate, W. B. Lykins in Morgan and a Mr. Oliver in Wolf. Just before the general election the Court of Appeals decided that the act creating the new districts was unconstitutional, so we had but one district and the party two nominees, so the committee in the two counties were called together and as it was Wolf's time they declared Oliver the nominee.

Winter Months on the Farm

How to Improve Them

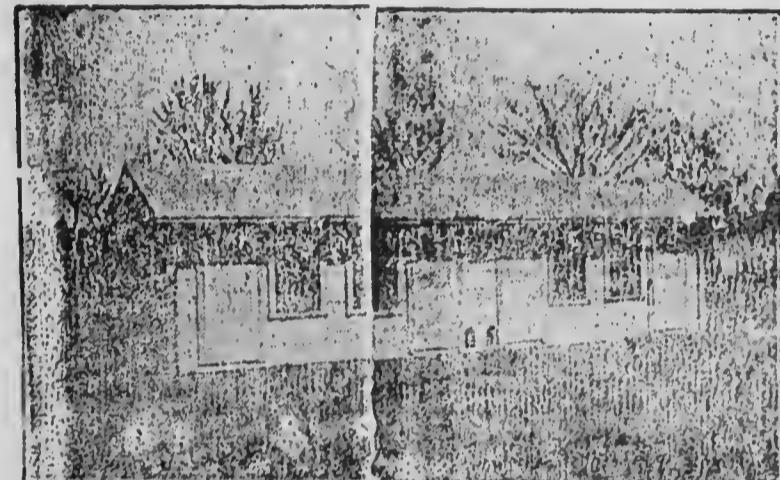

Poultry Breeding
How to Choose a Breed, Mate and Raise Fowls That Will Give Largest Net Returns
By PROF. J. G. HALPIN
Wisconsin College of Agriculture

Copyright, 1909, by Western Newspaper Union

The universal question of the farmer interested in poultry is "What breed will prove most profitable for general farm purposes?" He incessantly besieges the poultry fancier, the editors of poultry journals and similar authorities on chickens with this query. It is impossible to answer this question in the way the farmer desires. He expects a particular breed to be named outright and characterized as the premier money-maker of all varieties.

Due to the great similarity existing between the breeds, extreme variations in local conditions exist. As a result of individual peculiarities and preferences of the owners of the flocks, no one breed can be named as the most profitable for all farm purposes.

In general, the dual-purpose breeds, capable of both meat and egg production, are best adapted to farm conditions. Specialized varieties are impractical for the general farm, as they require too much attention and care. The farmer needs a bird with much vitality and constitution which will be able to rough it with a minimum amount of attention.

A poultry house well adapted to the average farmer. It has four pens, each connecting with a lot in the rear.

Some people have a natural liking for certain breeds and, by the practice of careful, painstaking selection can obtain the best results from their flocks. Anyone who constantly overfeeds should select one of the special egg-producing types rather than a meat-producing bird. The Leghorn is the variety best adapted for such classes of feeders.

Choosing a Breed.

The average countryman, according to his natural preference, should choose one of the dual purpose breeds for the farm henry. Any of the common varieties, Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red or Orpington, should satisfy the farmer for a rough-and-ready, handy, profitable fowl. Any special preference for birds of a certain color can be readily satisfied by the wide range of colors offered in the varieties of these breeds. A very misleading idea prevails among many inexperienced poultrymen that the color of the fowl radically affects its egg production. This is an imaginary view of the untrained as the color of the bird is of no importance in determining capacity for production.

There are some commendable features about the variety in the feathering of the breeds. The white fowl is admirable, due to the fact that no colored pin-feathers disfigure the dressed bird. On the other hand the white breeds present certain disadvantages, such as the fact that they are more conspicuous and afford inviting prey to hawks, and are hard to keep clean and presentable.

One Breed Best.

A crying evil in rural poultry business is the attempt to maintain more than one breed on the farm. The countryman should definitely decide on the breed best adapted to his conditions and then should work only with this variety. The common commendatory practices of the farmer is to maintain one breed for a time and switch when this breed is proving successful, an alluring advertisement or a snappy bit of news matter characterizing another breed as a "world beater" causes him to change the variety which he is raising.

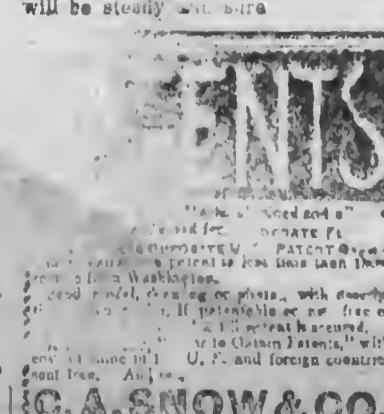

This continual shifting of breeds reacts upon the farmers' pocketbook and results in no good. A rigid rule should be followed: "Select the breed which has proved its merit and then adhere to this choice." Any of the above-named breeds will prove profitable if rigid selection of breeding stock is enforced and ordinary care is afforded the fowls.

The search of the farmer for a perfect breed instead of devoting his energies toward the improvement of his present variety should be condemned and derided. The countryman is not going to discover any such model variety no matter how ardent his search. He must develop his present breed by means of rigid selection, elimination of the weak and the improvement will be steady and sure.

Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry, didn't you? Well it isn't. A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on strike! It doesn't try to use its food. Scott's Emulsion wakes it up again flesh. That's the妙 of it.

SELL STRONG MALES.
In the case of the dual purpose breeds the maintenance of one male to every fifteen females is attended by best results. Much depends on the individual vigor, vitality and prolificacy of the male. A male of lazy, inactive, sluggish temperament should never be retained in the breeding pens as he would undoubtedly transmit these characteristics to his progeny. The breeding flock should be allowed access to a large range. Only the best pullets should be selected for breeding purposes, the others being sold for meat. For good results in breeding, more than one pen should be available in the poultry house. For example in the fall when the birds are brought in from the range it always pays to have one pen in which to house the pullets, and a second one for the older birds. The pullets are thus protected from misuse and abuse of the older and stronger hens until they mature sufficiently to be able to defend themselves. Close, rigid selection among the fowls of these pens should ultimately result in the choice of the cream of the flock to be used in future breeding operations.

Use Leg Bands.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the importance of marking the pullets with suitable leg bands in order to distinguish between them. Ordinary leg bands can be purchased for twenty cents a dozen and should be used as a means of identification throughout the flock. A record including the age of the bird and the setting from which the fowl was hatched is absolutely essential. On the majority of farms there is no way of determining whether a hen is two or ten years old. Old hens unfit for further service are allowed to set and their progeny retained for breeding purposes. This evil can be remedied by identification marks which would serve as a check on the bird's age and period of service.

Another bad custom of the average farmer is to wait for eggs concerning which he is led on by an inviting advertisement, and then, employing all the birds hatched from this setting, irrespective of their inherited tendencies, toward prolificacy and vigorous constitution, in his breeding operations. Promiscuous selection here permits the use of all those offsprings where rigid selection—the only ultimately successful method—would have condemned perhaps all except one or two of the very best of the flocks. Breed only the best and the improvement will be steady and sure.
